about US

Design Workshop hires individuals with a broad range of educational and cultural backgrounds from many landscape architecture, urban design, and planning programs. The opportunity to exchange ideas with talented candidates from diverse backgrounds fosters firm and individual growth, strengthens a project's decision-making process, and creates a global community in the workplace.

the PROGRAM

Dr. Charles Fountain was Professor Emeritus of Landscape Architecture and founder of the Landscape Architecture Program at North Carolina A&T. Established in 2004, the Dr. Charles Fountain Internship was created to provide opportunities for BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, People of Color) students, who are often underrepresented in the fields of landscape architecture and planning, to gain experience in an interdisciplinary design office environment.

“Design Workshop played a pivotal role in developing me into the man and leader I am today. The internship exposed me to diverse cultures and people from around the world. I was able to grow and spread my wings as an aspiring Landscape Architect. The culture and philosophy has undoubtedly created a solid foundation and expectation for any organization I've worked with since. When I left my internship, I knew what I wanted to do and how I could impact the world for the better through my career with Design Workshop. That internship gave me the motivation to chase my dreams and explore the possibilities of this world.”
